WEDNESDAY, MAY 23, 1744.

Extract of a Private Letter, dated Florence, May 6.

'THE general Sentiment of the 'People here is, that the Neu- 'trality of this Great Duchy 'is, or will be very ſoon, at 'at End; and that all the 'Forces we can raiſe will ſud- 'denly join Prince Lobko- 'witz. People better in- 'formed are in quite oppoſite 'Sentiments. The Neutrality of this Country has been found of prodigious Conſe- quence; no Pretenſions are formed upon it, the Re- mores of it daily increaſe, and are like to increaſe; nd we can ſcarce credit this News, that, for the Sake f uncertain Advantages, all theſe ſolid and permanent enefits will be ſlighted. Beſides, tho' our People are Reuters, our Wealth is Militant. The Grand Duke as advanced two Millions, for the Supply of the Army Naples; which is to be replaced out of the extraor- inary Grants of the Duchy of Milan, and its Depen- ncies.

A Letter from a Perſon of great Diſtinction at Vi- na, received a few Days ago by one of our Mini- ers, brings the following Intelligence. That the Or- rs ſent Prince Lobkowitz by Count Colleredo were this Effect; That he ſhould remain on the Frontiers the Kingdom of Naples, without advancing into em, till ſuch Time as he was ſatisfied that there was Danger of his Sardinian Majeſty's being overpower'd the combined Armies of the Infant Don Philip and Prince of Conti. In the mean time, Hopes have en given to that Monarch, of a Reinforcement of ,000 Men, in caſe he ſhould ſtand in Need of it. If s be true, we expect to ſee the Prince, with his my, ſoon in Lombardy again; and the rather, be- ſe an Officer paſſed through this City Yeſterday for Army, from Turin, who, we have good Reaſon believe, has no other Errand, than to haſten thoſe ecours, which the King muſt ſoon ſtand in need of, e the Crown of France has ſtipulated to force a ſage into Italy this Campaign, in Conſideration of e Advantages granted her in the Weſt-Indies by Catholick Majeſty, the Poſſeſſion of which, de- ds on the Performance of that Contract.

The Expedition into the Kingdom of Naples was doubtleſs reſolved on, from the Hopes given by ne conſiderable Perſons in that Kingdom of a gene- Revolt, to which it is well enough known many ouſands are inclined; but, to ſhew you the Spirit of ſe People, no ſooner the Courier arrived with the ws that Montalban was forced by the Spaniſh and nch Troops, and Villa Franca taken, but theſe Male- contents were ſeized with ſo warm a Fit of Loyalty, t they exceeded in their Rejoicings the beſt affected bjects that Don Carlos has. In ſhort, they are ſo ange a Sort of People, that there is no depending on them, either for one Side or t'other; but this y be relied on, that wherever they engage they will t but poorly. The Engliſh make a prodigious mber of Prizes; and the French Trade in the Medi- anean, and to the Levant, is quite at a Stand.

Florence, May 7. On the 29th paſt anchor'd at Leg- the Britiſh Merchant Ships, Durſley, Imperial , and Bacchus, with Letters of Marque; which , a few Days before, ſail'd from this Port with Cargoes for England, and on the 22d, between Corſo and Hieres, met, and took three French ls, whereof two from Smyrna, and one from Canea, n with Goods, valued at about 100,000 Dollars; ſe Cargoes they have obtained Leave from the Re- y of Florence to land at Leghorn, there to be kept e Diſpoſition of whom it may concern. The Britiſh have ſailed ſince on their Voyage for England.

Great Duke has demanded of the State a Supply oney, which is to be raiſed at the Rate of Four ent. upon the States, Revenues, &c. of his Sub- towards defraying the extraordinary Expences, oc- ned by raiſing the Militia, and other Diſpoſitions e better Security of the State.

LONDON.

According to the laſt Letters from Bruſſels, the Army of the Allies was ſo poſted, as to prevent the Communication between Bruges, Oſtend, and Nieuport, in ſpite of all that could be done by the French; and had it in their power to ſuccour Ypres, and Menin too, if attack'd; and as to Tournay and Mons, ſince the opening the Sluices, it was concluded that they had nothing to fear.

The French Forces have ſeized Spire, Worms, and Oppenheim in the Empire, but it is generally believed, that, conſidering the great Force which Prince Charles of Lorrain is aſſembling, they will be obliged to remain on the Defenſive, on that Side at leaſt; though ſome Advices from Franckfort intimate, that great Efforts will be made to reinſtate the Emperor in his Dominions this Campaign, about which, however, Politicians doubt, at leaſt, by the Way of the Sword.

Some private Letters from Paris mention an Expreſs arriving from Italy, who publiſhed his bringing good News all the Way he came, but whoſe Letters ſeem to have ſunk the Spirits of the Miniſtry; to account for which they give out, that the Prince of Conti has forced the Paſs of Oneglia, ſome ſcruple not to ſay the Col de Tende, but with prodigious Loſs, and is himſelf dangerouſly, if not mortally, wounded.

The ſame Letters add, that there were Accounts from Nice, of a Piedmonteſe Deſerter's giving the Prince of Conti Intelligence of a Paſſage by the Side of the Mountains, which had enabled him to flank the Enemy in ſome of their Poſts; which obliged the Count de la Rocca to withdraw the Troops poſted at Oneglia, in order to form a ſtrong Camp at Loano. We do not pretend to warrant theſe Pieces of News, but give them as they come; and we do the ſame by the following Letter.

Extract from a French Officers Letter, dated Warneton, May 19.

'You may rely on what I tell you. Menin is actually inveſted by 40,000 Men. We break Ground before it to 'Night. The Marſhal Count de Saxe is advanced to 'Deynſe, which is within three Leagues of Ghent, and 'has begun to throw up a ſtrong Work between the 'Lis and the Scheld. The Duke de Harcourt has 'marched with a Corps of 15000 Men, with incredible 'Diligence, thro' the Principality of Leige, and en- 'camped between Tirlemont and Louvain; and he is 'ſpeedily to be joined by a Corps of 14000 Men, at preſent near Brabanton; ſo that it looks as if we intended 'to ſurround the Allies on all Sides, and make the moſt 'of our Superiority at the Beginning of the Campaign.'

Yeſterday Philip Meadows, the Younger, of Diſs, in the County of Norfolk, Gentleman, was appointed a Maſter Extraordinary in the High Court of Chancery.

The ſame Day William Petty, Eſq; Citizen and Surgeon, of Fenchurch-ſtreet, was nominated by the Lord Mayor for one of the Sheriffs for the Year enſuing.

On Monday Mr. Thomas Martin, fell from his Horſe on Putney Bridge, occaſion'd by his taking Fright; by which Accident his Collar Bone was broke, and he lies in a dangerous Way at his Houſe at Clapham.

The ſame Evening, about Ten o'Clock, a Coach and Four coming from Vaux-Hall, was attack'd between the Turnpike and the Windmill, by ſeveral Fellows arm'd with Piſtols, who took from the Perſons therein a conſiderable Booty.

We hear, that an Order is ſent to Gibraltar, for Admiral Leſtock to return to Admiral Matthew's Fleet.

Next Thurſday a Chapter will be held at Kenſington, in order to fill up the Vacancies of the Garter and Bath.
